To the hiring committee

Thank you for the opportunity to apply to the Staff Product Designer, Developer Platform role on Netflix's Design Foundations team. As a customer and fan of Netflix, I have always appreciated the company's commitment to ground-breaking technology, excellent content, and meaningful customer communication.

At Typetura, we developed patented technologies for designers and front-end developers, creating products, services, and documentation to ensure our customers have the necessary tools to successfully implement our offerings. Additionally, I partnered with Google on two occasions to consult and guide the direction of typographic initiatives. This positions me firmly at the intersection of developer productivity, user experience, and technical infrastructure.

Similarly, at Mariana Tek, I identified the need to create and implement a design system to increase team velocity and deliver features to our diverse customers faster. I created and leveraged the building blocks and templates in Figma for a design system that empowered us to iterate rapidly on new feature ideas, collaborate closely with development teams, and drive toward feature deployment. The result was a 3x improvement in velocity, a 2x reduction in errors, and a more stable and consistent experience for our customers. As a result of this work, the company grew from a small startup serving boutique fitness companies to an acquisition by Xplor, a multinational group with interests throughout the services space.

I truly love the overlap of design and development, the amazing things technology enables, and getting the tools and knowledge into the hands of people. It's this experience and passion that I will bring to Netflix, working across the organization to understand challenges and systemize solutions to enhance and enrich the developer platform. I've seen this shared passion from designers and developers at Netflix: even from the outside, the drive to optimize, improve, and delight shines through. I'm excited to work alongside these passionate individuals, to serve Netflix customers, and to go home every day knowing that I've been a part of delivering beautiful content to customers worldwide.

Please let me know any questions you might have about my work or experience, and thank you in advance for your consideration of my application.

Warm regards,
Scott Kellum
