To the hiring committee

Thank you for the opportunity to apply to the Principal Product Designer role on Medium. It's a refreshing corner of the internet where people can be thoughtful and nuanced. I would be thrilled to contribute my 20+ years of product and editorial design experience to Medium, helping contribute to building the best reading and writing platform on the internet.

Creating beautiful reading and writing platforms is one of my core passions. As someone with dyslexia, I have dedicated my career to crafting beautiful text-based experiences I can enjoy. From working with renowned editorial designer Roger Black on new digital reading formats at Treesaver, to creating rich long-form storytelling and authoring tools at Vox Media, to developing fluid typesetting technologies at Typetura, I have pushed the medium of the web forward to be a better place for reading and writing.

This experience and passion is what I would bring to Medium. I truly love creating a place where people can share themselves online with others, and I am excited to bring this passion to my work.

Warm regards,
Scott Kellum
